> THE Dog LAW .- Why is not the dog law enforced? It is either a good law or a bad one. If the city is not to be overrun with worthless curs, enforce the penalties provided in the law. If dogs are a blessing to be cherished, and their breeding is to be encouraged, repeal it and refund the money to those who have paid the required license. It is unfair to make two or three hun or three thousand other people indulge their tastes free of cost. It is creating a dog aristocracy-and we are opposed to all aristocracies. We don't intend to discuss the merits of the law. We don't even intend to give an opinion as to whether rats or dogs are the greatest nuisance in a city. NEW YORK, July 8 .- A letter to the Tribune Beyond a few skirmishes, in which our troops gained the advantage, nothing has transpired in the neighborhood of Richmond since my last. The rebel army appears to have fallen back toward the city, and Gen. McClellan is now in a position well entrenched.

The apprehension that the rebels would stretch themselves down the Peninsula and probably attempt to blockade with land batteries the James river, has not as yet been realized. Our force at Yorktown is evacuating the place, and most of the guns have been burnt.

The rebel prisoners don't claim a victory, but confess to have failed in the object of their terrific attack commenced on Thursday of last week, in which their loss was confessedly much greater than ours, including many officers of A boat came through from Newbern via Nor
